

Year 6's Weekly Blog

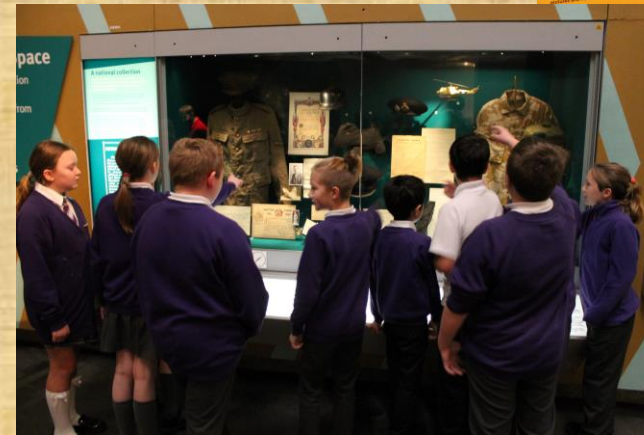

WC 25th November 2024

Year 6 had an incredible trip to the Imperial War Museum in Manchester! They immersed themselves in a 360-degree cinematic experience and became Ninjas during a thrilling secret mission. They explored over 1,000 artefacts from World War I to the present day and even had the chance to sketch some of the tanks and other weaponry. Upon their return to school, they wrote detailed recounts of their day to share their memories.

Last week, as part of UK Parliament Week, the children learned about the role of Parliament and the government during their PSHE lessons. Working in groups, they examined current affairs and ranked them from least to most important, debating their choices as if they were members of Parliament.

In English, they have been researching wolves to prepare for writing a non-chronological report. The children are focusing on presenting their work effectively, incorporating key Year 6 grammar, and using technical vocabulary to make their reports stand out.

'Wow, I can't believe the effect and destruction that a nuclear bomb would have if it went off in Manchester'

'This is the best day ever!'
